UGA Libraries 2025 Strategic Plan

Introduction

The Libraries underpin every aspect of the University's mission by connecting the campus community and the broader public with the recorded knowledge necessary for new discovery and for learning. Consistent with the University of Georgia's (UGA) deep commitment to teaching, the Libraries' strategic plan emphasizes the instructional role of librarians and archivists who impart the research skills that students need to be successful in their courses and in working in a knowledge-based economy. Enhanced learning spaces, experiential learning, archives-based instruction, and affordable learning are at the forefront of this plan, promoting UGA's culture of innovation and providing more equitable access to higher education for our students. To accommodate the University's growing ambitions in the areas of research and graduate education, the plan emphasizes sustained and more intuitive access to the record of scholarship through e-journals, databases, electronic and print monographs, government information, cartographic and media resources, and archives. It expands the Libraries' commitment to research support by sharing new goals in the area of research data management. The Libraries' plan reinforces the University's commitment to service, ultimately reaching statewide across the USG and at all levels of education. Reflecting the University's core values of diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI), the Libraries' plan fosters increased DEI within UGA's library collections, spaces, services, and workforce.
